ennis doubles championship against John R. Strachan and Clarence J. Griffin, the two young challengers from San Francisco, on more experienced defenders took the main court at the Casino to-day. The more experienced defenders took the match in straight sets at 6—4, 7—5, 6—1. More than thirty-we hundred onlookers were packed around the arena and the summer colony was out in a body.

While the title holders and wold-be champions were battling for supremacy contestants in the all comers tourney were waging their own warfare on the side courts. Incidentally the first upset of the singles was occurring when the en-thusiasts were giving their undivided attention to the first championship match of the week. It was the defeat of Alfred S. Dabney, the Longwood star, at the hands of Rowland Evans, Jr., of Philadelphia. Evans played all around the Bos-tonian and took straight sets at 6-3, N. J. Only three sets were needed to de-cide the match, but they all went to deuce at 8-6, 9-7, 7-5.

The doubles match started with Strachan The doubles match started with Strachan on the service line, and his team scored the first point when McLoughlin drove out of bounds. Bundy gave the challengers the next point when he netted, and McLoughlin followed his example. The defenders scored their first point on a net by Griffin from Bundy's sharp drive, but Strachan ended the game on a pretty placement shot. McLoughlin was the first to serve for the tileholders and his excellent work in back court gave him his excellent work in back court gave him a love game. The defenders took a deuce game on Griffin's service and followed

6—1, 7—5. Another unlooked for result was the victory of E. H. Whitney of Boston over Dean Muthey of Cranford, ith another victory on Bundy's.

With the score at 3 to 1 against them the youngsters braced and bagged a game after they had forced it to deuce four times. McLoughlin gained another love game on his own service, but Griffin and Bundy were not to be outdone, and they both did exactly the same thing in turn. The challengers took the ninth game on brilliant team work, but the Davis cup player made off with the tenth and deciding game almost single handed.

The challengers were nervous too in the opening set, and could do nothing with the terrife smashes of McLoughlin. They picked up courage, however, in the second set and covered the fore court so well that the defenders found it difficult to pass them. They concentrated their attack upon Bundy, but centrated their attack upon Bundy, but the latter was steady as a rock and the youngsters could not fease him. McLoughlin and Bundy, after losing the Jockey Ferguson Escapes From Serious Injury Only by Kindness of Chance.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Many thrills were crowded into the racing this afternoon. The public has got used to the overturning of favorites, but it remained for H. P. Whitney's Black Broom to furnish the most stunning surprise for form players by winning the Grand Union Hotel stakes for two-year-olds at odds of 30 to 1 in a small field of five.

With the crowd keyed up to a pitch of excitement by the topsy turvy performances of the horses the last event was marred by a jam in which several two-year-olds collided and Jockey Ferguson, who was riding August Belmont's Tea Enough, had a narrow escape from death.

Enough, had a narrow escape from death.
Following the reversals of yesterday the continued defeat of fancied candithe continued dereat of fancied candi-dates made speculators afraid to support the two choices which proved worthy of confidence and as both were at odds on there was little relief for those who de-pend on public form as a means of pick-ing winners. Among those which went down to defeat was one of the star per-formers of the Canadian tracks, Plate Glass.

Class.

No one thought that Mr. Whitney's Black Broom, a maiden until to-day, would be able to cope successfully with the four tried racers supplied by the Western horsemen. J. W. Camden started both Bringhurst and Cesuarina, while Little Nephew, owned by M. B. Gruber, and E. R. Bradley's Readley's Choice, and E. R. Bradley's Bradley's Choice made up the field opposed to Black Broom.

Black Broom off in front only to be out-run by the quickly breaking Little Nephew. After the first quarter the race appeared to be between Little Nephew and Bringhurst, with Casuarina keeping Brad-ley's Choice out of third place. Black Broom was last and looked as though he was there to stay when the field hit the head of the stretch. Bradley's Choice ran out and his supporters had about given up hope, but not so Loftus, who straightened his mount for the final rush. Then as if from the clouds came the despised Black Broom to nail Little Nephew at the last sixteenth note and commenter are the last sixteenth pole, and come clean away from the Uncle colt. Just as it looked as if Black Broom must win without real opposition Bradley's Choice came shooting along on the extreme outside and he closed so fast that the outsider only snatched victory by a head. Little Nephew was two lengths behind.

was two lengths behind.

The merry trouncing of favorites began with the first race at six furlongs, an all aged handicap in which the winner of the Saratoga Special, Roamer, was asked to do battle with aged horses. It took a four-year-old, Istrose, running in the colors of the Hurricane Stable, to take Roamer's measure and the winner only carried one pound more than the young ster. Iron Mask declined the heavy weight of 140 pounds, leaving Plate Glass top weight with 132. Plate Glass was practically beaten with the start and he was absolutely last to get into his running.

There were twenty starters in the last race, where the jam occurred which upset the calculations of those who had made tharvest Queen a 6 to 5 favorite. AMERICANS PLEDGE HELP TO GERMANS

Visiting Olympic Commissioners Dined at Both Plants of New York A. C.

A rousing welcome was accorded yesterday to the four members of the German Imperial Olympic Games Commission upon their arrival in New York aboard the steamship Bremen for a tour of the country to study American athletic conditions and methods. The visitors are Carl Diem (chairman), Lieut. Walberoon Reichenau, Dr. Martin Berner and Josef Waitser, the latter taking the place of Robert Pasemann, Germany's greatest all around athlete, who was prevented from making the trip by a sprained ankle suffered in athletic training.

Robert C. Kammerer, R. J. Schaefar and Matthew P. Halpin, members of the New York Athletic Club's reception committee boarded the vessel at Quarantine, and at the dock they were joined by fellow club members, the committee of the Irish-American A. C., made up of President P. J. Conway, Justice Victor J. Dowling, Justice Leonard Giegerich, Justice Peter Schmuck, W. L. Jones, Thomas E. Cummings and John J. Manning, and the committee of the Matroning, and the committee of the Metro-politan Association of the A A. U., com-posed of Frederick W. Rublen, Andrew F. Tully. J. W. Stumpf, George P. Ma-thews, Capt. Charles J. Dieges, H. Ober-tubbesing, Charles J. Harvey, John F. Conway and Otto Wable.

The visitors were driven about the city in motor cars, seeing the sights, until shortly after noon, when they were taken to the clubhouse of the New York A. C. They were ushered through the building and had a chance to inspect several pieces of strictly American physical training apparatus before they had been ashore five hours.

cal training apparatus before they had been ashore five hours.

The party then sat down to luncheon in one of the club banquet halls. President William H. Page of the club presided, and the luncheon wound up with his inviting the Germans to be the club's guests just before they return home, so that au revoirs may be said. Judge Bartow S. Weeks, Evert Jansen Wendell and Justice James W. Gerard, just appointed United States Ambassador to Germany, also spoke, and Herr Diem replied to their remarks on behalf of the visitors. The general sentiment expressed was that the members of the New York A C. and all other Americans would be glad to do anything they could to assist the visitors in their mission. their mission.

rrom the Fifty-ninth street clubhouse the visitors were taken in sight seeing automobiles up to the New York A. C. plant at Travers Island, where they watched several athletes in training, looked over the building and grounds and then had dinner at the clubhouse.

Each member of the German commission is attending to Each member of the German commission is attending to a separate phase of the work on their trip. Lieut. Reichenau will look out particularly for points on sports suitable for members of the German army. Herr Waitzer is to make a close study of methods of teaching specialists in track and field events, Dr. Berner is the publicity man of the committee, and Herr Diem is in general charge and also will attend to anything that does not come under the province of the others.
